

The River Dee Trust

Research, Restoration and Education

The River Dee Trust is a community-based charitable company guided by the principle of understanding and improving the River so that we may look after it for this and future generations. The River Dee is an internationally important environment for wildlife and is afforded the highest level of recognition at a European level for its populations of Atlantic salmon, otters and freshwater pearl mussels. Along with the River Dee, the Trust also works to support the neighbouring Rivers Cowie and Carron.

Our remit is focused on achieving two objectives. Firstly, we improve our knowledge of the ecology and associated fish stocks of the River Dee so that we can deliver practical improvements and restoration of the River and its wildlife; often in partnership with those that have the well-being of the River at heart. Secondly, we deliver educational information to schools, organisations and individuals (young and old) living in the North East of Scotland.

The River Dee Trust must raise sufficient funds to achieve these ambitious objectives. With your support we will be able to meet our aims and continue looking after the Dee and the surrounding area, for many years to come. To find out more about the River Dee Trust, visit www.riverdee.org

The proceeds from this auction will go to further our delivery of our education programme, support our up-and-coming tree planting project in the Upper Dee and help fund further easements of man made barriers to fish migration.

The River Dee Trust is a charity registered in Scotland, No. SC028497

The River Dee Trust

The Trust is tasked with restoring and conserving the River Dee, taking a holistic approach to the wellbeing of this Scottish River and its inhabitants. Under our care is the iconic Atlantic salmon, which along with their close cousins the sea trout, have occupied the length of the Dee since the last ice age. The most prized of these fish are the spring running salmon, which venture in from the sea during the depths of winter through the spring months. Unfortunately, these are the most vulnerable of our salmon stocks, having declined dramatically in recent decades. Our work is driven to protect these fish along with other vulnerable inhabitants of the Dee (including prehistoric lamprey, otters and freshwater pearl mussels), to the benefit of all wildlife, the countryside and those people that depend upon it.

The factors affecting these animals are changing and their populations continually have to adapt to the modern environment. The main cause of this change is mankind who has impacted on these species by exploiting them as a natural resource, destroying or altering their habitat, causing changes to water quality and quantity and on top of this, the wider climate changes. These impacts on migratory fish like salmon are not just delivered through the freshwater environment but through the oceans as well. As man is the main cause of these pressures it is up to the people who live, work, visit or just marvel at the River Dee to help look after it.

The Trust offers a vehicle to deliver protection and restoration of the River Dee, for the benefits of all of its inhabitants. We have been active in improving stream habitat by installing buffer strips, allowing migratory fish access to spawning grounds through the removal of man made obstructions, along with the very important task of educating the future generation. In 2010 our Conservation of Atlantic Salmon Scotland Life Project Award saw the River Dee given the highest accolade by Europe as being one of the 'best of the best' conservation projects across 27 countries. This has given us the confidence to develop another large project to plant trees along the riparian corridors in the Upper Dee catchment, to restore natural habitat and mitigate against the effects of climate change on the productive streams that flow through the area. These works are only possible due to the hard work of our dedicated staff and volunteers and our generous supporters such as you.

The Trust's monitoring programme shows improving numbers of juvenile fish in areas that have been opened up by removal of obstructions and where habitat works have been carried out. However, we cannot be complacent because of the increased losses of salmon at sea as a result of changes in the marine environment. We have much work still to do and this will go some way to compensating for the uncontrollable changes occurring in the Atlantic Ocean.

We are extremely grateful to all of the donors for their great generosity and continued support. I hope you can also support our work to protect and restore the iconic River Dee by digging deep and placing a bid, or two! Our future generations require that we act now to protect their River.

With Thanks

lan G Scott, Chairman

Lot 1.

Salmon fishing on the River Dee at Park

The Foster family (of Park Estates) have donated three day's fishing (Mon 18 – Wed 20 June 2012) at Park on the River Dee for six anglers. The lot includes full board and accommodation in the elegant Georgian Park House, providing delicious food and a wine cellar that's calling your name.

Park is renowned for the quality of its fishing. Its catch in 2011 was 809 salmon and 79 sea trout. Traditionally Park is a 'big fish' beat with most seasons seeing numerous fish landed up to 30lbs. Fishing in June provides the opportunity for visitors to fish for salmon and have a cast for sea trout in the long evenings after dinner. Wading is generally easy. This is a unique and superb venue that is extremely popular with both very keen sportsmen and well known celebrities.

Salmon & sea trout fishing in the Outer Hebrides

A chance to fish and live like a king. Salmo Fishings have donated three days (Mon 30 Jul – Wed 1 Aug 2012) prime time fishing for one person on the prestigious Amhuinnsuidhe Castle, North Harris Estate in the Outer Hebrides. This package includes 5* private accommodation in the castle, along with all meals, lunches and accompaniment by the head guide when fishing. The experience of traditional Hebridean loch fishing on the world famous Loch Voshmid, Loch Scourst and Loch Halladale amongst others will be unforgettable.

Salmo Fishings is a young, innovative outfitter that has been providing top quality fishing at the best locations throughout Scotland, including the River Dee and they are delighted to support the River Dee Trust: "If it was not for the drive, passion and effort that the River Staff show in looking after this wonderful river then it would not be the success that it is today".

Lot 3.

Sea trout fishing on the Rio Grande, Argentina

Roxtons Fieldsports have donated six days fishing for two anglers on the Rio Grande in Tierra Del Fuego, Argentina, in 2013. This lot includes fully guided fishing, fully inclusive accommodation (twin bed) in the luxurious Estancia Maria Behety lodge and fishing licenses. This sea trout fishery lands fish of up to 30 lb every year and those under 15 lb don't even make it into the lodge records! Clearly the fishing experience will be amazing but also consider the backdrop, with condors soaring overhead, guanaco's grazing the riverbanks, beavers beavering away and the finest Argentine vintage wines.

Roxtons Fieldsports is the largest sporting agency in the UK and have been instrumental in developing some of the world's leading salmon fishing destinations. They are "delighted to be able to support the fantastic work of the River Dee Trust in restoring the River Dee to its former glory".

Salmon fishing on Scotland's River Naver

A highland adventure for up to eight people courtesy of the world famous Altnaharra Estate! This lot includes salmon fishing on the famous River Naver for two anglers plus fishing for a further two anglers on the river Mudale, loch Naver and various other hill lochs. The fishing is for six days, from 4 to 9 June 2012. It also includes accommodation in a modern four bedroom, self-catering house (able to sleep four couples).

The river Naver is 18 miles long comprised of six fishing beats. Each of these beats will be fished for a day and there will only be two rods to a beat; the sound of your accompanying ghillie will be the only peace-breaker. Being able to fish the Naver at this time in the season is normally only available as 'dead man's shoes'; it's an opportunity not to be missed.

Lot 5.
Salmon fishing on the Gaula, Norway

Television fishing personality Matt Hayes has donated this 'money cannot buy' auction lot for two anglers to fish the magnificent Gaula River in Norway with Matt as their exclusive guide. The lot is for four days salmon fishing (Fri 1 – Mon 4 June 2012) with full board accommodation at Winsnes Lodge. Officially ranked as Europe's number one salmon river, the Gaula offers both quantity and quality of salmon - your next cast could provide a forty pounder. The early season in Norway sees the salmon arriving fresh from their feeding grounds, so expect a fight on your hands.

Matt has fished the River Dee in Scotland a number of times and is proud to "support the River Dee and all the vitally important habitat improvement work restoring the river to its former glories".

"CRYSTAL", an original painting by Howard Butterworth

"Crystal" is a framed original acrylic painting on handmade heavy watercolour paper, size 33" (H) by 40" (W). It is a snow scene from last winter of the River Dee at Invermuick near Ballater, not far from Howard's home in Glenmuick. This painting portrays his passion and respect for nature and symbolises the Dee's spirit and power. The River Dee often features in Howard's paintings; one of which is owned by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, so you will be following in royal footsteps if you own Crystal.

Howard is keen to continue his "support for the 'cutting-edge' technical expertise of the Trust and its modern approach to involving the community for the well-being of the Dee. Mitigating the effects of man on the 'life-blood' of Royal Deeside will allow future generations to enjoy the beauty of this glorious river".
